NEW ORLEANS, La., May 29.—The remains of Jeff Davis, the president of the confederacy, were removed from Louisiana yesterday, en route to the final resting place at Richmond, Va. The memorial hall in which the body lay in state, was visited all Saturday night and Sunday by a crowd of citizens representing all ranks from the highest to the lowest military admiral, all viewing the casket in their attempt to, in some measure, show their respect for the deceased whose remains were about to be transferred from the state which he loved so well and in which he last morning had spent. The floral offerings were very handsome. There were mammoth stars and crescents of immortelle in the confederate colors, and came respectively from the veteran Confederate States cavalry, Louisiana division, from the Artillery, 1st and 2d, and from the Ladies' Confederate Memorial association. The Washington Artillery

Veterans were represented in a wreath of immortelle, a yellow circle trimmed with blue with a crossed cane in the center, and the name of the command framed in purple across the face of the design. The gift of the Confederate Survivors' Association of Augusta was a wreath of white immortelle with a G. A. A. and red immortelle above and below the circle. As the hour drew nigh for the last sad ceremonies to take place, the crowds of the hall increased and every available inch of the banquette for black hats and hats by persons desirous to catch a glimpse of the memorial procession which was soon to pass. Gov. Murphy J. Foster and Lieut.

Gov. Parling, accompanied by their staff, reached the hall at 4 p.m. They were followed by Rev. Dr. Johnson well, a confederate veteran and old friend of Mr. Davis. A few minutes before 5 o'clock, Miss Winnie Davis and her sister, Mrs. Hayes arrived and both ladies were seated in the platform. Both ladies

A Chinaman Arrested Under the Exclusion Law.

No Provision in the Act Authorizing a United States Judge

To Order a Chinaman Deported Without a Certificate to Be Imprisoned While Awaiting Deposition—A New York Judge Has So Decided in the Case.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Judge LaCombe, of the United States circuit court, at the request of Maxwell Evans, associate counsel with Joseph H. Choate in the Chinese case, made a written decision in his chamber, the proceedings affecting the arrest of a Chinaman, Ng Looy, who was arraigned under the (new) act.

In his written decision Judge LaCombe says: "The prisoner, who was on May 24 arrested by the S. marshal being admitted to bail, is never, without the consent of the court, to be confined in prison except by reason required by the act of May 1, 1892, now offers to prove by a credible white witness that he was a resident of the United States at the time of his passage from China, but does not offer to prove such as is recognized by the sixth section, for his failure to procure a certificate within the time limited."

The statute requires the judge before whom the prisoner is brought to ascertain whether he is to be deported from the United States unless he proves not only residence here before the passage of the act, but also some sufficient excuse for the non-prosecution of his offense.

He has failed to do either, and instead of the disjunctive "or" added and intended—the use of the word "so" at the close of the sentence is persuasive to this construction.

The Chinese suing court has held, as is suggested that "and" must be read "or" to make the set constitutional, such construction would give a different effect to the case but I am shown no such opinion, nor is any yet filed, and I therefore hold that the act is valid.

"The arrest of the marshal was within the authority conferred on that officer by the sixth section, but the prisoner, having been brought before the court, which is to pass on his case, the question now arises what is to be done with him."

The sixth section states that it shall be the duty of the judge to order his deportation from the United States as he deems fit before his trial.

On examination of the prior sections of the act, however, discloses no provisions for such deportation. The most I can do therefore is to order his deportation whenever provision shall be made for the same by the proper authorities, and meanwhile, to release him, though some other set to which my attention has not been called may contain sufficient provision for this, in which case no further legislation would be necessary.

"I find no provision authorizing the United States judge in such cases to order the person found without certificate to be imprisoned for an indefinite time while awaiting deportation, and therefore shall discharge him from imprisonment, and let him go free."

The judge, in view of the circumstances, will, I hope, refer especially to the deportation of Chinamen who have no certificates, contained at the end of the first paragraph the following, referring to Chinaman under arrest.

The Chinaman, who is before a United States judge, when duty it shall be ordered that he be deported from the United States as he deems fit, provided, unless he shall establish clearly to the satisfaction of such judge that by reason of sickness, infirmity, or other cause, he has been unable to procure his certificate, and to the satisfaction of the court and to his own creditable white witness that he was a resident of the United States at the time of his passage from China, it shall appear that he is entitled to a certificate, it shall be granted upon his paying the costs."

In this paragraph is contained the conjunction "and" preceding the words "provided, unless he shall establish," to which reference is made by the judge in his decision. The main point in bringing the N.Y. Law case, was to determine whether it was possible to hold Chinamen arrested under the act in prison.
